U. S. OWES FARMERS $452,447

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

When one hears "A good time was had by all" it is customary to wonder what in Heaven's name has become of the poor wretch who furnished it. Where does he now conceal his shame or nurse his bruses? Because in this jovial world few jokes that have no victim are good, few quips that do not find their point in a heart. Most practical jokes come near to being tragic to some one.

Oh, these roguish spirits! How many fulfill their lives in devising innocent and original ways of causing pain, embarrassment, shock and fear! Yes, the world is full of normal, healthy souls going about giggling like Iblis at any misfortune or acute discomfort, and if they fail to find it they always stand ready to invent it for amusement's jolly sake. Making of pain a jest and of jest a pain. "The darker the crime," one can imagine them snickering in their good-natured way, "the deeper the joke."

America, they will tell you, needs more wholesome humor to relieve it of its tedium and sorrows—anything from a blush to poisoning will do as a starter. And sometimes to prove they can be serious if they wish they will stare at an idiot and remark "Poor fellow, what a shame to be in his condition." And they don't know the half of it.

What a pity the prank and practical joke do not amuse the victim as well as the jolly fellows who perpetrate them. But greater pity 'tis that the unappreciated are omitted.

That styles in tombstone inscriptions are subject to change and have changed in certain essential respects during the last century are facts brought to public attention by a veteran Ohio stonemason who has been carving epitaphs for five decades. The public, however, will not agree with him that the change is for the worse.

The sculptor for the dead laments that sentimental epitaphs are no longer inscribed on headstones. The modern custom of carving only names and dates on tombstones represents to him so much less work per stone.

Perhaps there are still places in the "uncivilized" hinterland where mourning relatives cause to be chiseled upon the monuments of the dead brief testimonials to the character of the deceaesed, elegiac or scriptural verses, and even notes of warning to the living or an apophasis on the dead. Rural cemeteries furnish many grotesque examples of this custom of not so long ago.

And why should the tombstone furnish more facts about the dead than the name and dates of birth and death? Man's works are preserved elsewhere than on polished slabs of marble and as he lives he writes the record of what life upon a tablet that not even time can wholly efface.

The girl who today treads the aisle to the tune of the wedding march observes certain marriage rites so old that the original reasons for their existence are forgotten.

Her wedding veil, for instance, is a relic of the canopy that was formerly held over the bride to seclude her from profane gaze. The ancient Romans attached a great importance to the custom of veiling the bride, the principal object being to protect her from the evil eye, a superstition current among many tribes and races. Among other early people the glance of a bride spelled misfortune for the one

Some of the services Flinn rendered to the city of Tyler are: He made a study of safety problems and helped draw up recommendations upon which the Tyler saftey council was formed. He was a member of the steering committee that successfully handled the campaign of a Tylerite for the presidency of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was chairman of the Christmas tree funds for poor kiddies, responsible for the Christmas lighting contest and aided in raising funds for the Chamber of Commerce Santa Claus fund. He was chairman of the "On to Corpus Christi" Club. ENTOMOLOGY SERVICE BEGINS PROJECT HERE

The Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture has opened a project in Milam County to destroy diseased and abandoned peach trees and particularly those affected by Phony Peach Disease. Phony disease of the peach affects the root system of the tree, stunting the growth and making the fruit unfit for use.

Counties throughout Central Texas where this eradication project is now being carried on have had infected orchards in previous years. This project will be county-wide and a close check of orchards and peach stock nursery environs is being made.

Jesse P. Taylor is supervisor of this project in Milam county with headquarters at Cameron. Co-operation of all orchardists in allowing the removal of diseased and abandoned trees will aid the program of disease control.

Notify the county agent or Jesse P. Taylor of diseased orchards which should be removed.

GENERAL MOTORS HEAD IN STRIKE STATEMENT

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President of General Motors Corporation, issued the following statement today:

General Motors has only one desire in this situation. We are eager to return our 135,000 employes to work as quickly as possible. We are convinced, and the facts show, that most of them wish to get back to work.

The obstacle to peaceful settlement is the unlawful occupation of our plants by sit-down strikers who have no right, in law or reason, to hold possession of them. General Motors is willing to bargain collectively when it receives back its plants.

At Governor Murphy's request, we went to Lancing and agreed to begin bargaining. The union agreed to vacate the plants. We have lived up to our word to the Governor. The union has violated its word. They made charges which have no basis in fact in an attempt to justify their own

TRUCK OPERATORS TO PLEAD MODIFICATION

Austin, Jan. 25.—As the session opens, it becomes evident that there will be several bushel baskets full of bills relating to highway saftey introduced in both houses.

While a careful analysis shows that only a relatively small part of the accidents involve motor trucks, still that small percent is sufficient to warrant the most careful consideration by truck owners and operators as to what they can do to rectify the situation.

Commenting on the position of the association which he represents, Mr. W. P. Bates, Executie Vice-President of the Manufacturers and Merchants Transportation Association, said:

"There are three things that vitally effect the private truck owners of

Green & Boedeker Big Sale Is Week End Event Here

This week-end will be welcomed by housewives in this section of the county because of the special food saving offers to be found at Green & Boedeker's grocery store.

The unsettled weather conditions has made it impossible for many shoppers to purchase the much needed articles of the good kitchen the last several weeks and they will welcome the food specials offered at the Green and Boedeker grocery store.

"Even though bad weather continues, shoppers may receive excellent service either by telephone or curb service,'" Mr. Green stated.

OPEN HOUSE HERE ON FEBR. 4 TO FARMERS

The Cameron Machine Shop, local implement dealers, will hold all day open house and an all day program of entertainment and educational features, on Thursday February 4 in the Machine Shop building to commemorate the John Deere Centennial.

"The Blacksmith's Gift," a historic epic of American agriculture 100 years ago, will be one of the outstanding features of the day's program.

This remarkable picture is an all-Hollywood production, featuring comedian of "The Trial of the Lonesome Pine," Fuzzy Knight, in a dramatic story of the early settlement of the West. It relates the story of a grave problem that threatened for a time to defeat the advance of the early settlers—and tells how one man met that difficulty with a solution which changed the course of American history.

In its gripping drama there is sentiment aplenty, but the loqucious Fuzzy Knight as a gossipy hander on offers a continuous run of comedy.

IN TRUCK LEGISLATION

Any change in existing Texas truck laws which will increase the present 7,000-pound load limit will affect adversely all communities in the state, both rural and urban. This statement is proved best by identifying the causes and effects upon Texas communities.

These are:

1. Increasing truck loads mean correspondingly increasing the distance which the truck can profitably carry its load.

2. Increasing the distance of profitable truck haul means bringing the small town wholesale houses and industrial plants, such as wholesale grocers, bottling plants, feed mills, oil mills, grain elevators, cotton compresses and retail lumber yards, into direct competition with similar establishments in large cities.

3. Such competition will inevitably result in further drying up the small country towns by taking from them the payrolls, taxes and local purchases represented by their present establishments. Property values, both residential and commercial, will decline; volume of retail sales will grow smaller and former empoyees will migrate to the cities to reinforce the ranks of the unemployed and the bread lines.

4. Large cities, at first stimulated by increased trade territories, bought at the expense of the country towns, will be ultimately affected adversely because of the resulting unhealthy condition of the rural communities forming these trade territories.

5. Because of the consequent shrinkage of the state's tax revenues from country towns, taxes from the cities will have to be increased correspondingly.

6. The lower truck load limit of Texas now has the effect of acting as a barrier at Texas borders to the movement of the larger truck loads carrying merchandise from the metropolitan and producing centers of other states. Any increase in Texas truck load limits will break down that barrier and permit the free truck movement into the state of many commodities which unquestionably would be sold directly to the retailers, thus destroying, in a large measure, the business of wholesalers and jobbers now located in Texas cities.

Conditions which affect adversely the well-being of Texas communities also affect Texas railroads in identical manner and degree.

Capitol Events

Many things have been taking place in Austin for the last three weeks. A great many people have been coming to the capitol city beginning with the coming of the New Year. The legislature met on the 12th of the month, and the Senate completed its organization and the House elected Robert Calvert Speaker.

On Wednesday night the Travis County delegation of one Senator and two representatives, assisted by citizens of Austin, entertained the entire legislature, and their wives with a 240 plate banquet at the Driskill Hotel. Senator Brownlee acted as toastmaster. As the banquet was given as a get together acquainted affair, there was a spirit of fraternity and good will evident on every hand. Short speeches were made and the two best were made by Governor Allred and Coke Stevenson, former speaker of the House. Some day the people of Texas will see these two boys making a campaign against each other for the Senate, and when the thing comes off we are going to see the most entertaining display of political rap jacket that has taken place in a long time. They are real stump artists.

Attorney General William McCraw, known already to the boys from the forks of the creeks as "Bill Mergaw," pulled a new stunt. Instead of being sworn in by some obscure official in an office, Bill pulls of a real inauguration—some said it was an inauguration, while others say that won't take place for two years yet. But Bill had Judge Ben Looney of the Dallas Court of Appeals to come down and swear him in, and he had Pat Neff to introduce him with an oration that but few can equal and none can surpass. I pronounce Governor Neff the most correct speaker Texas ever produced. So Bill had a thousand people at his opening and, believe me, he made a wonderful response to what Governor Allred did not say about him. Bill appears to be a going concern already. He has a talented wife that outshines him a little and she will help no little also.

The inauguration of Governor Allred on the 19th was held in the House of Representatives and was an impressive occasion. Judge Sharp administered the official oath to Governor Allred, and the Governor delivered an impressive speech of acceptance. If he can hold the legislature to some definite plan and policy he will be a strong contender for future honors—failing in which there might be another story to record.

The legislature pot has begun to bile. Judge Ben Cathey, that old time democrat of Wood County and friend and neighbor of Jim Hogg when he used to live at Quitman, offered an amendment to the present old age pension law giving authority to the Commissioner's Courts of the State to pass on the applications for pensions instead of the hundreds of office holders that now draw state money that Judge Cathey contends ought to go to the old people for pensions. The discussion got warm and many members see in this preliminary skirmish the beginning of a cat and parrot scrap soon to take place.

Senator Sulak of the La Grange district has introduced a constitutional amendment that is already causing much discussion. He proposes to let the people vote on the question of whether they want to pay all people who are 65 years of age $15 a month who are eligible under the present constitution, without any other disqualification and levy a sales tax of 2 per cent, the proceeds of which are to be used exclusively to pay the old age pension.

Senator Sulak says that this tax would produce $35,000,000 (thirty-five million dollars) a year, and if this was not quite enough then the liquor tax could be used to supplement the 2 cent tax. Senator Sulak's idea is meeting with favor in the legislature as the members appear to prefer to let the people pass on the question direct, thereby relieving them of the responsibility of deciding the issue which might result in many political hazards. It is argued that this plan will make unnecessary the passage of any heavy taxes on natural resources which is badly needed to pay off the 16 million dollar growing deficit in the treasury at this time.

Trucks

Texas. The first, of course, is the situation created by the New Way Lumber Company case and the Day Lumber and Timber Company case where the courts have declared these private truck operators to be public carriers. Second, we are interested in the weight limit situation, but, after all, one of our most important problems, and one to which the association is devoting a great deal of thought and effort, is that of highway safety as it relates to trucks.

While you cannot legislate the characteristics of careful driving into a man's head, just the same, the right kind of safety laws and regulations give a basis upon which to start the education of drivers. For that reason, this organization is very anxious to see the proper kind of safety measures passed in this session of the Legislature. We believe that any saftey law passed should be based upon actual consideration of highway saftey, and that any element of economical protection to any special interest should be left entirely out of it.

"Consequently, we feel that any law passed should have teeth in it and those teeth designed to bite any one who violates it. After all, the size of the truck or the amount of weight on it makes little difference. It is the mechanical condition of that vehicle and the way the man in the cab handles it that counts.

"First of all, there should be a provision in the statutes requiring a high mechanical standard. All vehicles should be inspected regularly. The cost of an inspection department would be comparatively low as against the cost of these highway accidents. If a truck cannot come up to standard, it should be taken from the highways, regardless to whom it belongs

"You cannot pour brains into a man's head with a legal funnel, but you can pass a law that requires a man to have "driving sense" before he ever takes hold of the wheel. For that reason, we believe the drivers license law, both as it relates to truck drivers and passenger car drivers, should be made a good deal more rigid in its requirements.

"These requirements need not be such as will rule from the highways any competent operator, but if a driver is required to learn how to drive before he takes the wheel, becomes impressed with the seriousness of competent driving, and they obey highway regulations and rules of the road, careful driving soon becomes second nature to him. From then on he is a good driver. And remember this: When there is a wreck between a truck and a pleasure car, one of the drivers involved was in the pleasure car. Driving requirements should be as stiff for him as for the man in the cab.

"Another thing I believe would help a great deal would be the centralization of the enforcement of the law into one body. As it is now, the Department of Public Saftey is charged with most of the enforcement, but under certificates of convenience and necessity and permits, the Railroad Commission also has some of this work to do. Some people are advocating that all trucks should be placed under the Railroad Commission for "saftey purposes." This is utterly foolish. The Railroad Commission's duties are regulatory as to competition between various forms of transportation. "Old Man Fate" does not look up a truck's ownership before he mixes it up in an accident, and Death and Injury do not care in what business the truck is engaged. So the question of whether the trucks shall operate under a permit or not has nothing to do with it. There should not be any discrimination between those that do so operate and those that do not, and since the Railroad Commission only has jurisdiction of those operating under certificates of convenience and necessity and permits it does not seem to me that this is their job at all, but should be the job of the Department of Public Safety.

"Above everything else, leave out of the law all elements of the truck owners business, whether it is the for hire truck, a private truck, a farm truck or what not Do not mix it up with the Railroad Commission. Put the job squarely up to the Department of Public Saftey and then forever and everlastingly educate all motor vehicle drivers to use their brains, and if they do not do so, take their license away from them until they realize that when a man gets back of the steering wheel he is assuming for himself the greatest responsibility a man ever assumes: That of protecting the lives of others."

MAKE YOUR OWN MUFFIN MIX

A MAN-SIZED breakfast in 30 minutes—baked eggs, bacon and pecan muffins. Muffins, did we say? This new homemade muffin mix answers "yes." To prepare it, sift together 2 cups general purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in ¼ cup shortening and add ¼ cup chopped pecan meats. Store uncovered in modern ice refrigerator where the air-conditioning chamber provides a constant circulation of clean moist air to keep the mix fresh and sweet for future use. Then remove the mix from refrigerator and add 1 beaten egg and ¾ cup milk. Mix lightly. Bake in greased muffin tins in hot oven (400°) approximately 25 minutes.

SHOWER

Miss Lalla Meyers and mother, Mrs. Lou Meyers, entertained on Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, honoring Mrs. Edna Merle Greenlees. The entertainment was in the form of a shower.

Guests, who were greeted by Miss Mable Armstrong at the door, met with a warmth and cheeriness within, contrasting greatly with the ice laden and freezing atmosphere which prevailed outside.

Floor lamps placed about the spacious living room and reception suite cast a soft glow lending cheeriness to the surroundings and adding a picturesque note to the setting, was the mother of the home, sitting in her favorite chair by the fireside with its glow accenuating her gentleness and charm and snow white hair.

The dining room was most attractive in candle light and on the lace laid table reflected a bowl of colorful flowers.

Games were enjoyed by twenty-two guests after which Miss Doris Cammer entered with a bassonette filled with dainty and attractive gifts which were presented the honor guest. Mrs. Greenlees, in a very gracious manner, thanked each for their thoughtfulness.

The hostess served a refreshment plate with coffee.

More Railroad Facts

We will give herewith some more Railroad facts to inform the people of what a great blessing Railroads are to the Community and Nation. The Railroads haul a ton of freight a mile for an average revenue of less than one penny.

They have increased the speal of Freight trains in the last few years up to 43%.

The Railroads pay 45 cents of every dollar they take in to employees in salaries.

They have built their own "highways" at their own expense and maintained them at their own expense.

In the face of all this the Railroads have reduced their fares as much as 44% in the last two years.

Statistics reveal that we are safer on a railroad train than in our own homes. More accidents occur in our own homes than in the Railroad trains.

Surely we appreciate what the railroads are doing for the Community and Nation.

...monthly discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, rundown condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

EDITORIAL

You flunked a course, did you? You are mad at the teacher, are you? He or she didn't give you what you justly deserved, did he? You can't see why you make "D," can you?

Put it on the teacher. Clear your own skirts. The teachers have endured many such charges When you flunk, of course, it isn't possibly your fault. You, certainly have done your duty. You studied one night out of every week on each lesson, burned mid-night oil on a theme that was overdue two days and was going to be resposible for your going to the detention hall if you didn't write it.

The teacher doesn't want you to pass. She feels good to get to cover your mid-term exam papers with red marks. "Well, I put a good one over again. I flunked that pupil that studies so hard." That is more than likely what she says. She likes to fail pupils; really she does.

A new term has just begun. If the shoe above fits you, wear it. Don a new fur coat lined with hours and hours of studying; put on a new hat trimmed with interest in your class due to your studying. Get some gloves and you will be so different looking that the teacher wont even recognize you. You will find a passing grade on your card, and you more than likely won't blame the teacher.

PRACTICE BEGUN FOR LATIN TOURNAMENT

The Latin classes have begun practice for the 1937 Latin Tournament. Those trying out in the first-year Latin class are Maxine Akers, Harriet Atkinson, Jim Baskin, Marjorie Foster, Dorothy Huebner, Bruce Laird Raymond Lesiker, Lucille McDermott and J. B. Sanders. Those trying out in the second year class are Milton Boone, Caroline Chambers, Naomi Chandler, Stone Garner, Virginia Humble, Janette McIntyre, Mary Elizabeth O'Neil, Dorothy Perkins and Douglas Perrin.

Miss Ethel Skelton, Latin instructor, is coaching those who have entered the local tournament. The tournament, this year, is to be held at Cleburne on Saturday, April 3.

Last year Virginia Humble and Stone Garner won first and second places as first-year representatives and consequently brought back a cup for Yoe High School. Also, Adele Slama's essay placed second in the Essay Contest for second-year students.

Miss Skelton and her Latin students are looking forward to the tournament with a great deal of enthusiasm and hope that this year's entrants will be as successful as last year's.

MAGICIAN PERFORMS TRICKS FOR ASSEMBLY

Magician Lyman gave an exhibition of his "mental, physical, optical, voice and taste" powers on the Yoe High auditorium stage Monday morning at 11:30. His showing of what appeared to be hypnotism was at times convincing, but most of his "tricks" failed dismally. One boy especially seemed susceptible to his efforts. He seemed unable to draw his hand from Mr. Lyman's at the latter's will and many other of his efforts were rewarded with success. Mr. Lyman also claimed to change his face, but the audience noticed small change if any.

CHEST AIDS STUDENTS

Community chest work has been a great asset to needy boys and girls in Ada Henderson School this year, according to Guy C. Haynes, principal. A system has been arranged so that each child comes under the observation of the teacher who reports to the community chest if the child is poorly clothed or fed. The child is then directed to the community chest headquarters, where he is fitted with better clothes.

Twenty-two children in Ada Henderson are given milk, and two are given lunches every day in the cafeteria

"PIGSKIN PARADE" IS BENEFIT SHOW HERE

When the Southwestern University Band comes to town Friday, Jan. 29th for an appearance in the Yoe High Gymnazium auditorium, they will bring with them not only a talented group of splendid young "male" musicians, but also several very charming young ladies—or "Co-eds," as they are called on the Campus.

To select a few from the bevy of beautiful girls at Southwestern, was no easy task for Director Tom Johnson, but finally after a period of auditioning and elimination, three girls were picked to accompany the Band on its tour, each of whom is outstanding in her particular field of endeavor.

Joyce Pryce, is the Sweetheart of the Band. She was elected by the boys at the beginning of the semester and in the capacity of "Sweetheart" she appears with the Band in all of its public performances, both on the gridiron and in its Pigskin Revue. Not only is she a very attractive young lady, but she is also a talented musician, and as such, she directs the Band in a special number of her own composition.

In addition to Joyce, there are two other co-eds—Nixie Stephens, and Adeline Herman. Nixie possesses a lovely voice which she exhibits to good advantage in the Revue, while Adeline's forte rests in her feet, she being an extremely talented and clever tap dancer.

The Southwestern Band's appearance in Cameron is under the auspices of Band Parents and proceeds go to our Yoe High Band.

John Deere

Other leading parts are played by Arthur Aylesworth, Otis Harlan, Anne Hovey, John Marlowe, and Clari McDowell.

In addition to this feature production, three other pictures will be shown, including "From One Anvil," a sequal to "The Blacksmith's Gift," "Her Husband's Choice;" and a short news reel showing new developments in agricultural methods.

"Her Husband's Choice" is a sequel to "Sheppard & Son," shown last year. You'll see your old friends of former years—Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard; their son, Dick; their daughter, Phyllis; her soon-to-be husband, Geo. Barkley, and Jim Brady. It's the story of a modern farm boy and girl planning to start in farming for themselves . . . their efforts to restore the family farm . . . their plans for tractors, implements, and crops . . . and how the desire for a tractor was satisfied in a very unusual way. This picture, packed with entertainment, is an education in modern farming methods as well.

Besides the entertainment features, the program of the day will include talks and demonstrations which will, in effect, be a short course in modern farming and the Cameron Machine Shop extends a cordial invitation to every farmer in this area to be present for a day of pleasure and profit.

"We especially want every farm boy who is interested in becoming a better farmer to be present," Mr. W. J. Michalka said. "Much of the program will be of special interest to young people on the farm."

The hosts of the day plan to make this open house one of the big occasions of the season where farmers from every section may meet and get acquainted and exchange experiences. At the same time, it will be an opportunity to learn many new ideas which will make farm operations more profitable.

The open house this year is a part of the John Deere Centennial celebration; for it was in 1837, just 100 years ago, that John Deere gave to the world the steel plow.

At The THEATER In Cameron

By C. W. GJEDDE

COMING SOON, "THE MAGNIFICENT BRUTE"

"The Magnificent Brute," a giant of a man, is torn between two blondes. That is, two at one time. The battle of the blodes for his affctions will be portrayed at the Cameron Theatre soon.

The story is taken from Owen Francis' "Big," which ran in Libety Magazine.

Victor McLaglen, winner of the last Academy award for his outstanding screen performances, is the star of this Universal film, in which he is seen as "Big" Steve Andrews, a swaggering maker of steel.

In the steel mills, Big Steve finds the towering Bill Morgan, his bitterest enemy, already installed as "top" workman. Their hatred flames anew when he defeats Morgan in a test of strength. The tension is increased when Big Steve takes Morgan's girl away from him, and the revengeful Bill plots to ruin his rival by underhand means.

Then begins the aforementioned struggle between the blondes for the possession of Steve. Binnie Barnes, as Della, scores the first victory. Jean Dixon, as Blossom, uses feminine strategy to gain the advantage. The climax puts Steve against Morgan in a stirring conflict, a battle of Titans.

William Hall portrays Morgan; Henry Armetta has a prominent role; Billy Burrud is seen as an appealing youngster. Edward Norris and Selmar Jackson have important parts. This picture is directed by John G. Blystone.

Through the story runs an absorbing plot centering about a white girl who, raised in the jungle, is worshipped by the natives as a goddess because of her extraordinary power to rule lions.

The title role of "Jungle Jim" is played by the star, Grant Withers.

Dallas, Jan. 22.—Dr. James Quayle Dealey, 75, editor-in-chief of The Dallas News and The Dallas Journal for the past seven years, educator and scholar of international reputation for more than half a century, died today.

Dr. Dealey was at his desk when he was stricken. He was in conference with his brother, G. B. Dealey, president of the A. H. Belo Publishing company, when he collapsed from a heart ailment.

Unemployment Compensation in Texas

How to Become Eligible for Benefits

Question 8—"How do I establish my eligibility for benefits under the Unemployment Compensation Act?"

Answer—You must comply with a number of rules:

(1) You must register for work at a public employment office. Subsequently, we will discuss the establishment of these offices.

(2) You must make a claim for compensation or benefits according to the rules of the Commission. The law requires every employer to post these rules and regulations at a conspicuous place where you can easily see and study them.

(3) You must be able to work; and you must be ready to take work. In other words, you must be ready and willing—in case a call comes to you from the public employment office at which you have signed up.

(4) Between the time you lose your job and the time you get your first benefit check, there must be a "waiting period" of two weeks, you will receive no pay during those two weeks, but the public employment office will make every effort to find a job for you.

However, it is not necessary that those two weeks of waiting be one right after the other. If you have been unemployed any two weeks out of the thirteen weeks before you make application for compensation, then you can draw your compensation right away.

(5) You must have had a job for at least 13 weeks during the year prior to the time when you lose your job. The next article will discuss the exceptions to this rule, such as sickness, etc.

A Special Case of Eligibility

Question 9—"After I had been working for a considerable time and had built up my compensation credit, I lost my job. Right away I started a small business of my own. I kept this business going for a number of months, but finally I had to apply for unemployment compensation. But the law says that I must have been employed for at least 13 weeks during the last 52 before I become unemployed. My only job in the past 52 weeks has been in my little business. Does this make me ineligible for benefits?"

ANSWER—No. In such cases as yours, you will be allowed to skip the time that you were working for yourself. You can start counting your 13 out of 52 weeks in the time before you started your own business. Let's see an example:

First, you worked for wages during 1937. Thus you built up 13 weeks of possible benefits.

Second, you lost your job on Jan. 1, 1938, and started in a small business of your own which you kept going for a year.

Third, your own business goes on the rocks and you apply for benefits in January 19399. In your application you go back to the time when you were working for wages, or in other words, to your 1937 record of employment.

This same treatment will be used for people who were physically or mentally disabled and therefore unable to work. This procedure will be used for people who have been working in trades, such as violation of the Lansing agreement.

The statement made by the union clearly indicates that the strikers are acting under his orders. His statement also indicates clearly his determined will to dominate the industry and its workers by illegality and force.

The strikers were called in the beginning without any attempt, on the part of the union, to bargain collectiely. We agreed to bargain with the union as soon as the sit-downers quit the plants. We imposed no conditions on the union whatsoever. We stated that, during negotiations, we would not attempt to operate struck plants, or to remove from them, any dies, tools, machinery of equipment.

In the interest of getting our people back to work, without precipitating riots and violence, and in the interest of bargaining, General Motors was willing, while there was hope of bargaining, to do anything reasonable.

We agreed to discuss the union's demands in a general conference with our executives.

We agreed to meet with the union leaders at Lansing, to arrange terms on which bargaining should begin.

We agreed not to try to operate struck plants while negotiations were on.

We agreed to go to Washington to co-operate with federal and state officials in their efforts over the last two days, to reach a basis of negotiations.

In the face of this willingness of ours to do everything to make possible a negotiation on the basis of reason, the union persists in its unlawul possession of our plants.

The present dead-lock cannot go on indefinitely. Our men wish to work. They are prevented by a small group of sit-down strikers and their leaders, who are willing to jeprodize the country's recovery, in order to impose dictatorship on our industry and on our people.

Our duty is plain. We have a responsibility to our employes. This strike is costing the employes of General Motors a million dollars a day, in wages. Our duty to them is to do everything possible to save them from further loss of income and from being thrown on relief.

The situation must be solved and I am sure that a way will be found to solve it fundamentally in the near future. In the meantime, so far as our ability to carry inventory will permit, every effort will be made to afford as much work as possible to our employes who are out of work through no fault of their own.

Mr. Knudsen is returning to Detroit today to see how far he can put this policy into effect.

meeting it, unless it happened to be the bridegroom, so the bridal veil was required.

That the wedding ring was originally a mark of ownership, evidence that the wearer of it was the property of her husband, is a fact well known in this day of freedom for women. Today the ring is but a symbol of marriage.

One might enumerate ad infinitum the instances where once significant customs survive today as meaningless ceremonies or are observed for reasons having no relation to the cause of their origin in antiquity.

There seems to be an eternal and continuous struggle among scientists to figure out the age of the earth. A report of the Smithonian Institute gives as its opinion that the universe is three billion years old, which would seem to establish a record that not only exceeds all previous guesses hazarded along this line but which, moreover, sets a standard for future jugglers with figures to shoot at as they attempt to outdo their predecessors.

I is not quite clear to most people why it is so necessary to determine the age of the earth. Here and there new evidences are uncovered by expeditions which have been excavating tombs and ancient runis for the purpose of studying antiquity. But even the most interesting discoveries do not take the present age back more than a few thousand years at best, and whatever took place before that period, perforce must be largely a matter of conjecture.

All generations are the same. First they are naughty; then they get fedup and reform; then they scold the young for being as they were.

"PIGSKIN PARADE" IS BENEFIT SHOW HERE

When the Southwestern University Band comes to town Friday, Jan. 29th for an appearance in the Yoe High Gymnazium auditorium, they will bring with them not only a talented group of splendid young "male" musicians, but also several very charming young ladies—or "Co-eds," as they are called on the Campus.

To select a few from the bevy of beautiful girls at Southwestern, was no easy task for Director Tom Johnson, but finally after a period of auditioning and elimination, three girls were picked to accompany the Band on its tour, each of whom is outstanding in her particular field of endeavor.

Joyce Pryce, is the Sweetheart of the Band. She was elected by the boys at the beginning of the semester and in the capacity of "Sweetheart" she appears with the Band in all of its public performances, both on the gridiron and in its Pigskin Revue. Not only is she a very attractive young lady, but she is also a talented musician, and as such, she directs the Band in a special number of her own composition.

In addition to Joyce, there are two other co-eds—Nixie Stephens, and Adeline Herman. Nixie possesses a lovely voice which she exhibits to good advantage in the Revue, while Adeline's forte rests in her feet, she being an extremely talented and clever tap dancer.

The Southwestern Band's appearance in Cameron is under the auspices of Band Parents and proceeds go to our Yoe High Band.

THE WASHINGTON STAGE

REVIEWED BY

W. R. POAGE

OUR CONGRESSMAN

Last week I mentioned the organization of the House here in Washington and how it differed from the organization at Austin. Another matter which while plainly seen at home, is even more striking here is the relatively greater importance of the Executive Branch of Government here. Of course, in both State and Nation, it was originally intended that the three branches of government should be co-ordinate but in both State and Nation each branch has gradually sought to extend its prerogatives into the field of the other two. And while there has been more public discussion of the alleged usurpation of legislative powers by the Courts, I am convinced that one of the most insidious and dangerous encroachments on the power of a coordinate branch of government has been the practice of the legislative branch to encroach on the prerogatives of the Executive in matters of appointments. A long established custom has allowed Senators and Congressmen to make recommendations to the Administrative Departments of the government and in return the Congress has practically abdicated much of its legislative functions so that Executive recommendations are accepted in lieu of the deliberate opinion of the majority of the Members in too many cases. I think that all of this usurpation of power by either branch of the government is bad. Congressmen have reached a point where they can not take time from their efforts to locate jobs to even read proposed legislation, and the Executive can not select an efficient staff because of congressional pressure. No more people are helped and if no Congressman could influence any appointment, everybody who wants a government job would be just as well off. Congress could give more time to the matters affecting all the people and the Departments could have a chance to select the kind of help they want. In other words, it would go a long way toward restoring the fundamental separation of branches of government.

As I see it, this is one of the greatest benefits that we can hope to derive from the propsed reorganization bill. This measure has been recommended by the President. It reorganizes the Executie Departments of the Federal Government and attempts to take all appointive positions out of politics. Of course, I am sure that if passed it will not secure all the desired results, but it will surely be a step in the right direction. It does not in its present form provide for the reduction of federal bureaus and agencies that I think it should. I am rather inclined to feel that Congressman Buchanan from Brenham, and Senator Byrd of Virginia, are correct when they say it should effect more immediate economy. This federal government is so extravagent in so many large items, although it is at this time undoubtedly reducting its activities and expenses, that I wonder how the people support it at all. This reorganization plan seems to me to offer more hope for improvement in the government service and reduction in expense than any proposal of recent years, and is the most important matter that has come before Congress this week. It has been referred to a special committee in the House and it will probably be weeks or even months before it is reported, as it covers so many different matters that the committee must conduct long drawn-out hearings.

In the meantime, the standing committee assignments have been made and the Texas Delegation organized. I was fortunate in committee assignments. Although I would have preferred to have been placed on the Committee on Agriculture, that committee already has two Texas Members, including its Chairman. I was, however, given a place on Immigration and Naturalization, War Claims and Census. The same day I was elected Secretary of the Texas Delegation, which I consider a distinct honor to our Congressional District.

Saturday night the Texas Club, composed of Texans who are now in Washington, gave a reception for the three new Congressmen from our State—Honorable Clyde Garrett of Eastland, Honorable Albert Thomas of Houston, and myself. There were several hundred people present and I met friends from every county in our district.

This week all attention is centered on the Inauguration. The city is covered with stands recently erected for the purpose of viewing the parade and the grounds in front of the Capitol have been filled with stages and platforms. There is no doubt that it will be a magnificent affair, but I fear that Washington weather, which seems to include a cold rain every day, will seriously interfere.

Sincerely yours,
W. R. POAGE, M. C.

FARM CLUB NEWS

The pantry that Mrs. Jim Netherland, demonstrator of the Sandy Creek Club, will build to store her foods will be located on an inside wall. This is an ideal location as foods will be cooler in summer and will not freeze in winter. The pantry will be shallow and long, with enough shelving to store all the food needed for her family of six.

Clothing expenditures of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hairson are being recorded by Mrs. Hairston, clothing demonstrator for the Sandy Creek H-D Club, to help her in being a better buyer. Mrs. Hairston watches for bargains and buys carefully, but she hopes, by studying her records, to find any leaks, and thereby make the money spent for clothes buy all possible.

Two clothes closets will be built by Mrs. Herbert Walker, wardrobe demonstrator of the Gause Club, for the storage of the clothing of the family. These closets will be just wide enough to accomodate hangers without crowding, but will be long and will reach to the ceiling. Shelves for hats, linens and bed covers will be built in. In addition to rods at the right height for adults use, a low rod will be put in so that the two year old can hang his own clothes. Shoe racks and hats stands will complete the fittings of the closets.

DANA X. BIBLE NOW COACH AT UNIVERSITY

Austin, Jan. 21—Dana X Bible was elected football coach at Texas University Thursday afternoon at a reported salary of $15,000 per year and offered a contract for 10 years.

Regents of the University announced the election of Bible following long conferences between the regents, officials of the university and the Nebraska sports mentor.

The salary figure agreed upon was not announced by the regents but it was believed it was $15,000 per year.

Bible, who formerly was coach at Texas A. and M., left Austin tonight for Lincoln, to confer with Nebraska University officials, and is expected to announce acceptance of the offered contract after that conference.

To Name Aides

Bible will return to Austin in four days when, if he has finally accepted, he will announce his assistants. He did not say who the assistants would be, nor would he say whether Ted Twomey, Longhorn line coach under Chevigny, had applied for a job, but it was thought Twomey would be given full consideration.

Dr. J. C. Dolley, chairman of the athletic council, said regular spring football training would start under Bible March 1.

Some believed an open date in the Longhorn schedule, the first Saturday in December, might be filled by some Eastern team, since Bible is on good terms with athletic officials in the East. That, however, was mere speculation.

Benedict Approves

Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, said he was in accord with the selection of Bible and pledged his fullest co-operation.

"I am in accord with the selection of Mr. Bible because I consider him the best qualified in the whole country for the task for which he has been chosen," Dr. Benedict said.

"After conferring with him, I believe that he has a very fine attitude and the highest ideals with reference to intercollegiate sports combined with a capacity to give his views full effect.

"Assuredly I shall give him my fullest co-operation in the discharge of his responsibilities."

The announcement was made after the regents had been in conference with Bible intermittently for two days.

A statement said the remuneration would be "commensurate" with the responsibilities.

Bible himself issued the following statement:

"We had a fine conference at Austin. The conditions presented and in which all groups are in accord are most satisfactory.

"I prefer to appear before the Nebraska authorities before formal acceptance is annuounced. I will request a meeting with Chancellor Burnett and the athletic board Saturday morning."

Shortly before the regents' announcement was made, a number of the board of regents had reported the conference between the officials and Bible was deadlocked.

Maj. J. R. Parten of Houston made the deadlock announcement without elaboration after Bible had conferred with the athletic committee of the regents, the athletic council and Doctor Benedict.

Observers thought it possible the "deadlock" was over some detail of salary or the length of a contract between Bible and the university.

Bible came to Austin from Lincoln two days ago and has since held long discussions behind closed doors with athletic officials.

A suggested bone of contention was President Benedict's known objection to a coach's salary higher than his own of $8000 or the highest-paid professors' of $5000 a year. Bible was reported to have asked $15,000 with an ample amount for assistants plus a contract of from five to ten years. The board recently approved paying a high salary to a coach.

Bible's record showed his teams had won 147 games, tied 16 and lost 42. At Txas A. and M. Colleges, where he coached from 1917 to 1928, inclusively, his elevens won five Southwest Conference championships. His Nebraska teams won six out of eight Big Six Conference titles.

The University of Nebraska was reported to be making no effort to retain him by topping Texas' offer. Bible had said he was well satisfied with his position as director of the Cornhuskers' athletic activities.

farming, which are not covered by the law. These occupations will be detailed in the next article.

What Occupations Does the Law Cover?

Question 10—"What occupations are covered by the law?

Answer—The easiest way to answer that question is to list the occupations that are not covered. The unemployment compensation act includes all workers for any one employer who employs as many as 8 persons, except in certain specified fields.

The Act covers all occupations with these exceptions:

(1) State, Federal, county and city workers, and employees of all political subdivisions of any of the governing units named are exempt.

(2) If Congress has written a special unemployment insurance law covering your industry, you are exempt from the state law.

(3) Farm labor is exempted, and all domestic service in a private home.

(4) If a father works for his son his daughter, or his wife, he is exempted. Likewise, children working for their parents are exempted.

(5) The officers and crews of vessels on navigable waters are exempted.

(6) Workers in a non-profit organization, such as a community chest, are exempted.

(7) Agents of insurance companies who are paid strictly on a commission basis are exempted.

If you have any questions concerning the operation of this law as it affects employers or workers, you can have your questions answered by writing to R. B. Anderson, chairman, Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, Austin.
